

(Cambridge Chronicle and Journal, Saturday, 11 January 1862)

Funeral of the late Mr. William Haggis.

On Wednesday the 8th inst., the mortal remains of the late Mr. William Haggis, our fellow townsman, of the Rose Crescent, were consigned to their final resting place, at the Cemetery, Mill-road. The deceased, who had just completed his 55th year as a faithful and confidential servant at Trinity College, was highly respected and generally beloved by all who had the knowledge of his service and friendship during that long period. The hearse and mourning coaches containing the relatives and immediate friends of the deceased on passing the great gates of Trinity College were joined by the fellow servants of the deceased, who followed in procession to pay a last tribute to his departed worth. The Rev. W. Emery, B.D., Senior Proctor, read the beautiful and sublime Burial Service in a most impressive and solemn manner, and many a tear was shed, by those assembled, over the grave of an old and valued fellow servant.